

A black and white photograph showing a dark, granular surface, possibly asphalt or a similar material. A light-colored, horizontal line or curb runs across the upper portion of the frame, separating the dark surface from a lighter area above it. The texture of the dark surface is highly detailed, showing individual grains and small pits.